Make Sure You Get a Real Good Home Theater System

When real estate became the fashion years ago it was recognized that three bedrooms was the optimum for re-sale value. Then it was four bedrooms with an en-suite or second bathroom and at least a two car garage. Now it is accepted that we will have a family room, a separate dining room for formal dining, a rumpus room for the kids and even a billiard room for Dad. But it doesn't stop there. Now if you don't have a home theater room with a real good home theater system you are not quiet keeping up with the Jones.

Remember when we would go to the movies and it was a massive hall with a balcony up the top and seating for several hundreds of people. Then when the VHS movies became popular movie theaters had to re-think and now they are fairly small compact arrangements with much better sound and big screen effect. There are several of these smaller theaters now together so that the venue can be showing several movies all at once. It has proved to be a winner and managing to get movie goers back in front of the big screen.

However, the new threat to the movie theater business is going to be the home movie lounge. Since home theater has moved away from the lounge room into a purpose built home movie theater lounge, home movies have become a specialist hi tech area. With big screens now available for home and the super hi tech systems that are available, why would you want to go out to the movies. You can now have a movie night at home that is just as enjoyable as the movie theater. The picture quality is just as good as is the sound quality and with the new systems this quality is even better.

There is nothing like sitting in your own theater lounge with the volume at the level you like, bullets whistling round your ears and gravel from spinning wheels rattling behind you. You are right there in the action. There is no strangers next to or behind you coughing or rustling popcorn packets to annoy you. No body in the seat beside texting on his cell phone with light seemingly blinding you as you try and concentrate on a delicate scene. Then of course, you can always pause the movie or rewind a bit if you miss something. All in all your experience at your home movie theater is going to be much better especially when the new three D stuff come out.

So, the one most important thing we have to do after we have decided to build our home theater lounge is to buy our home movie system. Just make sure you get a real good home theater system or the money you have spent on the new viewing lounge is going to be wasted. We can't afford to take any shortcuts here. You want a reputable dealer with reputable reliable high performing products. Don't settle for anything less no matter what the cost. This is going to revolutionize your leisure hours. Make sure you get it right.
